DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 1-36 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention lacks patentable utility. Applicant shows and provides information regarding the offshore oil drilling industry, but fails to show how this information is useful. Applicant does not show how this information can be used to do or make something useful, tangible or concrete.
3. Claims 1 and 34 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because "one or more users" is nonstatutory subject matter. As explained in MPEP §2105, "If the broadest reasonable interpretation of the claimed invention as a whole encompasses a human being, then a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 101 must be made indicating that the claimed invention is directed to nonstatutory subject matter." Claims 2-7 and 9-11 are rejected as being dependent upon claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claim 1 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yahoo! Finance website (see attached PTO-892, Ref. U). Hereinafter "Yahoo! Finance".

6. As per claim 1, Yahoo! Finance teaches a system for providing information regarding publicly traded companies that operate in the offshore drilling industry, comprising: one or more users (see Yahoo!
